Dedication

MRS. JANE BRADLEY

Mrs. Bradley's support and understanding, her wisdom and regard for each of us, have been important mainstays during this decisive year.

To her teaching duties, she brings a contagious enthusiasm which makes her classes an exciting adventure; to her administrative duties she brings both the perspective and the concern which have served well in this crucial year for Rowland Hall.

Thus, as both teacher and counselor, she has helped us determine our horizons and with an affectionate and judicious hand, has guided us toward them. To you, Mrs. Bradley, we dedicate this Yearbook.

Introduction

As tiny babies and toddlers, our horizons are limited to the four walls of our homes, but in time, these horizons begin to widen, first to include our streets, then our neighborhoods, then the limitless horizons of the world of school. With so many people surrounding us in our broadening spheres of experience, with their varied ways of thinking and their diversified beliefs, we might easily become confused and lost. We need help to learn to distinguish right from wrong, to choose the values on which we will build our lives, to see the horizons of life clearly and so be able to aim for and reach them.

At school, this help comes from our teachers. They nurture our minds with the knowledge that opens many horizons to us. They guide us toward meaningful values and goals, inspire us to aim for them, teach us to be self-reliant and develop a sense of personal integrity.

When a girl graduates from Rowland Hall and faces the adult world, she may aim for the highest goals, the loftiest of horizons, with confidence.

Both as president of the board of trustees and as a friend, Bishop Watson speaks to us in Chapel about problems that affect every student at Rowland Hall. His words make us think about our lives and help us get to know ourselves. We look to him to guide us, to help us answer the questions, "Who am I?" and "Why am I here?"

He helps us to develop an awareness and an understanding of those aspects of our lives which are especially important. He lifts us to broader spiritual horizons.

MRS. ELIZABETH T. CORR

Our principal and headmistress, Mrs. Corr, has seen many horizons in her lifetime, both those in her own life and those of the many students she has known.

Despite the never ending pressures of her position, she is always ready to counsel us when we are troubled, to praise us when we have excelled. Drawing on her own wide experience, warm personality and perceptiveness, she is able to help us sort out our ambitions and direct us along the wisest paths to our goals.

Faculty and Staff

Knowledge is more than the learning of facts. Observing, questioning, reasoning are all part of the learning process and are important aspects in the formation of our characters and the development of our minds. The assimilation of knowledge depends greatly upon guidance and inspiration. This guidance and inspiration comes from our faculty whose members direct our intellects and our emotions to the diversified horizons of knowledge.

To the office, kitchen and household staffs go our thanks and recognition of their behind the scenes efficiency and their cheerfulness which make our school day move smoothly and pleasantly.

Class of 1964

We, the class of 1964, are leaving behind us perhaps the most important horizon in our educational careers. During our years at Rowland Hall, we have changed and broadened our ideas and perspectives; we have matured emotionally and intellectually; we have been prepared to face the unknown horizons which will commence with our graduation.

We may never again study and learn in such a warm and close atmosphere nor may we ever again be surrounded by a faculty so interested in our growth as individuals. But the future with its new horizons awaits us and, prepared by our years at Rowland Hall, we are ready and eager to accept its challenge.

Class of 1965

Looking back on our junior year, we realize anew the changes the year has wrought in us. As upperclassmen, we were suddenly faced with more responsibilities than we had ever known before. Upon our shoulders rested the success or failure of two major fund-raising projects, the Junior Prom and our fashion show. Tested as a class, we were also tested extensively as individuals, for this was the year of College Boards, of college decisions and of new experiences in independent thinking on both academic and personal levels.

Next year there will be further responsibilities; as seniors and prefects we shall be assuming positions of leadership in all areas of Rowland Hall life. To be successful in next year's endeavors will be no small task but we face next year with happy expectation and with the resolve to be worthy leaders and to make our last year at Rowland Hall our best year!

This year we became sophomores! How different it all seemed. The class of 1963 had graduated and in its place was our sister class, this year's graduating seniors. There were new faces in our class, too, and together we planned and looked forward to new things just as we continue to look ahead now.

Most important of all, we found ourselves more mature, with less vague desires about what we hope to do with our lives and with greater knowledge of the world around us. It was a little as if we had changed overnight and we are still a bit awed by this apparent transformation. But we are also proud of it, for it signifies growth and the reaching out toward bigger and brighter horizons.

Middle School

We, the seventh and eighth grades, have taken a giant step away from the lower school and toward the upper school. The eighth grade looks forward with increasing excitement to the next school year when, at long last, the glorious term of high school student will fit them too. The seventh grade sighs with impatience (at least they will be eighth graders next year), buries noses deeper into books which become more and more advanced and eagerly absorbs any and all information about high school life.

The middle school years are full of change and adjustment as we work toward the day we shall reach the threshold of a new horizon — the high school.

Lower School

In the beginning of our lower school years, our horizons are just starting to develop. One of our first horizons, though we may not understand it at the time, is reached on that wonderful and awesome first day of school. With each year, we grow up and out and inside. We meet new people and new books and new ways of doing, seeing, studying, and learning. And we are learning fast and furiously. By the time we understand just what a horizon is, we are already reaching out for them!

Organizations

Our student body has ample opportunity to enjoy the pleasant experiences involved in belonging to one or more of Rowland Hall's many organizations and clubs.

For the language enthusiast there are the French, Latin and Spanish Clubs; for those with interest and talent in music, there is our choir. Student government, the many organizations connected with the chapel, the United Nations Club, our three school publications and the Athletic Association, offer innumerable chances for pursuing and sharing our special interests.

Michele Hackett
Student Body President

The student body president at Rowland Hall holds the highest elective office in the school.

Because of the merging of Rowland Hall and St. Mark's, this year's student body president has had the additional responsibility of helping to organize the rewriting of the constitution to make possible the successful merging of the two student governments.

The girl holding the position of student body president merits the respect and is capable of bearing the great responsibility inherent in this office.

Mischa Axline
Crucifer

The Crucifer, who fills the highest position in the student body, is chosen every year out of the senior class.

The Crucifer herself represents a horizon toward which we strive; she is to us a symbol of a way of life, built on a delight in living, consideration for others and an honest integrity.

Judith Young
Crozier Bearer

The Crozier Bearer, who serves during Friday Chapel services, carries Bishop Watson's crook in the Friday chapel processional and recessional. She walks before the Bishop bearing the crook, which represents the Bishop's shepherding or guidance of his flock, or people.

Recommended by the students and chosen by the Bishop, the Crozier Bearer is an outstanding member of the school community.

The choir, this year directed by Mr. Joseph Miranda, has been "the greatest." Choir members have worked hard preparing for the festivals of the church in addition to singing each morning in chapel. We shall always remember the beautiful music they sang at Candle and Carol, and the breathtaking "Schubert Mass in G" presented on Maundy Thursday. The choir has shown us new horizons through the beauty of sound.

Candle and Carol, one of the most beautiful Rowland Hall Christmas traditions, this year was held at the Cathedral with both boys and girls participating in the service.

A dramatic reading of the Christmas story by seniors added a touch of novelty, rounding out the traditional candlelight service of Christmas carols, anthems sung by our outstanding choir, and an address by Bishop Watson.

Candle and Carol

Acolytes

The duties of the Acolytes consist of assisting Father Winder during chapel and communion services.

Appointed by the Bishop, on the recommendation of the student body, the Acolytes are held in high esteem by the school community.

Chapel Guild

Chapel Guild is an organization composed of girls who volunteer to work together to keep the chapel and sacristy clean. Many girls participate in this activity to help the chapel services become something everyone can take pride in. These girls work hard and their work is shown by the spotless chapel we go into every morning.

Chapel Committee

Each Friday, one can hear, at a very early hour, the buzz of voices behind the closed doors of the Senior Room. At 8:20, the buzz ceases and the Chapel Committee emerges from the room.

The Chapel Committee is a group which, with Father Pete, has diligently striven to improve our chapel services. Through this committee, the student body is represented; to this committee the student body is indebted for its vigorous interest in chapel. Working through the years, the Chapel Committee has helped make our services meaningful to all students at Rowland Hall.

Rho Hota

Rho Hota is Rowland Hall's chapter of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools. The members are those girls of the Junior and Senior Classes who earn their places in the honor society by achieving and consistently maintaining a high academic average. Rho Hota is responsible for planning assembly programs.

This year several of the students who participated in interesting activities during the year gave reports in assembly. Martha Pierce discussed her experiences as representative for Girls' State, a session held each summer wherein chosen girls are given the opportunity to learn about state government. Judy Young reported on the success of our Sub for Santa project. Mischa Axline described to us her adventures as American Field Service student to Uruguay.

Student Council

The Student Council, comprised of representatives from the high school, and one from the middle school, serves as the students' representative body. It is here that student views become known to other students and to the faculty.

Student Council acts as a clearing house for activity dates and new projects. In addition, new legislation and constitutional by-laws and amendments originate in this body.

Through the work of the Student Council, student government is able to function more effectively and with greater ease.

Athletic Association

The Athletic Association is the only organization to which every girl in the high school belongs. Its aim is to promote school spirit and good sportsmanship. This is brought about by a program of intramural games and by various A. A. sponsored activities, such as pep rallies and "hoot-enannys." Another of the responsibilities of the A. A. is to run the school store where students may purchase a wide variety of school supplies.

At the end of the year, awards are presented to those who have made outstanding contributions to the efficient operation of the Athletic Association and to those who have actively participated in the sports program.

Boarding Department

The Boarding Department is an invaluable asset to Rowland Hall. Girls from a variety of states and even foreign countries come to live and to go to school at Rowland Hall. They bring with them their experiences and ideas which they share with us, enabling us to broaden the limits of our horizons and increase our awareness of the diversity of the world we live in. In turn, those who board have the opportunity to widen their cultural horizons by taking advantage of the opportunities available in Salt Lake City.

Under the guiding hand of our house mother, Mrs. Henrietta Pearson (Aunt Henri), the boarders flourish, learning both academic skills and those very vital skills which enable our forty boarders to live together with mutual benefit both to Rowland Hall and each other.

Lantern

Hours of hard work by staff members produced our Yearbook, the story of Rowland Hall and its students and teachers during the years 1963-1964.

Told in photographs, art work and copy, the presentation of this story was made possible by long art and layout meetings, by photos snapped candidly and professionally, by typewriters pounding out volumes of copy and by a never-ending search for ads. Patience, enthusiasm and cooperation helped produce this printed record of Rowland Hall's joys and sorrows, activities and projects.

Recognition and thanks go to the Eighth Grade girls who created the paper figures on our divider pages.

Lamplighter and Echoes

The Echoes is Rowland Hall's literary magazine, compiled and edited by the members of our creative writing class. An all-school publication, The Echoes encourages students from all grades to contribute their creative work. Consequently, the magazine is an offering comprised of the ideas and experiences, hopes and dreams we hold from early childhood to young adulthood.

The Lamplighter is our school newspaper, written, compiled and staffed entirely by the students of Rowland Hall. Through this medium we have the opportunity to analyze, comment and criticize or praise the many aspects of our school. The Lamplighter provides its staff with practical experience in working with others and meeting responsibility as we will find it in adult life; at the same time it is a source of pride and amusement for the students and a genuine reflection of school spirit.

Senior Trip

Each February, the senior girls journey to San Francisco. During their excitement packed week there the girls have a chance to see another way of life in a cosmopolitan city, and the opportunity to experience the cultural advantages of this way of life. Their days are full to the brim with visits to places of cultural interest such as the De Young Museum, the Symphony, the Museum of Fine Arts and the aquarium. The girls attend plays and visit the campuses of colleges and universities which interest them. Some of them even get their first view of the ocean during this trip.

During this week, the seniors gain practical experience in budgeting and handling money and in being self-reliant. Gaining familiarity with art, drama, music and the fascinating history of the city adds breadth and depth to their perceptions of the cultural horizons open to them. They return to Rowland Hall refreshed and enlightened, with a store of wonderful memories.

From the beginning of the school year, Rowland Hall's calendar of activities has offered a rich and diversified program.

The first of the year picnic helped us start off the year with a feeling of togetherness. The fact that all classes can and do take part in Rowland Hall's activities has allowed us to keep this feeling since we have been both free to cultivate friendships begun by sharing activities and to enjoy working together in groups for common goals.

As we look forward to our horizons and anticipate our futures, we realize that we need to be well-rounded people who can happily pursue both the social and academic aspects of life.

Junior Prom

Perhaps no school social event is as festive, as imbued with tradition or as eagerly anticipated as the Junior Prom. And this year's was no exception!

Couples arriving at the Cottonwood Club on the evening of May 8th were greeted by flower-filled sombreros and pinatas which highlighted the Prom's "Spanish Fiesta" theme. And, as all who attended the Prom will testify, it was indeed una noche maravillosa!

LOOKING BACK AND AHEAD ----

A year of change, a year unusually full and fulfilling, has past, and with it the tragedies and triumphs of 1963-1964.

President Kennedy's death brought deep grief to Rowland Hall; we found comfort in being able to gather together in our chapel during this sorrowful time.

Rowland Hall's last year as a girls' school brought sadness as well as excitement for the year ahead, but much of the sadness has been swallowed up in the burst of purposeful and efficient activity which has set the groundwork for our merger. Already, we have put a new constitution and a unified student government into operation. Next year will see a combining of boys' and girls' classes, of faculty, publications and organizations and most important, of school spirit.

After eighty-four years of growth as Rowland Hall, we are ready for new horizons proudly bearing the name of The Rowland Hall-St. Mark's School !

“NO man can reveal to you aught but that which already lies half asleep in the dawning of your knowledge. The teacher who walks in the shadow of the temple, among his followers, gives not of his wisdom but rather of his faith and his lovingness. If he is indeed wise he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind. The astronomer may speak to you of his understanding of space, but he cannot give you his understanding. The musician may sing to you of the rhythm which is in all space, but he cannot give you the ear which arrests the rhythm nor the voice that echoes it. And he who is versed in the science of numbers can tell of the regions of weight and measure, but he cannot conduct you thither. For the vision of one man lends not its wings to another man. And even as each of you stands alone in God’s knowledge, so must each one of you be alone in his knowledge of God and in his understanding of the earth.”

— Kahlil Gibran from THE PROPHET.
